Statutory programmes of study

This section contains the statutory programmes of study to be followed. It is most important that subject leaders familiarise themselves with each section below so that they can support colleagues in the teaching of the programme at the relevant key stages.

Each programme of study consists of a number of units of work. These take the form of a key question followed by a series of supplementary questions. Pupils MUST be given an opportunity to consider these questions at some point in the key stage indicated. They should do so with regard to the requirements for coverage of religions and beliefs.
